for the first time at the New National Theater for one week beginning Desamber 5th. There will be matinees Wednesday and Saturday. The piece will be presented here as it was shown at the New Amsterdam Theater, New York for a period of more than six monthi; R will be performed by a cast which includes Mrs. Vernon Castle, Frank Thiney, Bernard Granville, Elisabeth Brice, Charles King, Harry Kelly, Harry Ellis and numerous other footlight notables. In addition to those of the principal players every name assoclated with "watch Your Step" is one that has been made illustrious by memogrably successful achievement in some particular avenue of the entertainment

As a producer Mr. Dillingham has given the stage a score of musical comedy and operetta triumphs; Harry B. Smith, who wrote the book of "Watch Your Step" is probably the best known of American librettists; Helen Dryden, who designed the sceney and coatumes for the piece enjoys an international reputation as an originator of wemen's clothes-fashions; Irving Berlin, who is responsible for the music and the lyrics, is without question the most popular of modern song writers—his productions are played, sung, whistled all over the world.

For the first time since the company began its career in Washington four years ago, the Poli Players will be seen next week, in Shakespearean drama, the dhistorical masterpiece. "Julius Caesar." This will be an ambitious undertaking for the stock company, but the players will have the advantage of the cooperation of one of the greatest tragedians on the American stage today, R. D. MacLean, who, two seasons ago, was aco-star with William Paversham in "Julius Caesar." playing the part of Brutus, and he will play the same part with the Poli company next week.

In the role of Marc Antony, A. H. van Buren will make his debut in classic drama, while Mark Kent will say farewell to Washington when he appears in the toga of the Roman conspirator. Caius Cassius. Florence Rittenhouse will be seen in the role of Portia, Brutus wife.

Upon the last occasion of the production of "Julius Caesar" in Washington, William Faversham appeared as Marc Antony, and Frank Keenan was the Cassius.

Marguerite Clark will be seen the last four days of the week in one of the most delightful and thorougholy enjoyable of Mark Twains many works. "The Prince and the Pauper."

As the fifth attraction in his "Tenstar Concert Series." T. Arthur Smith will present Friday afternoon, December 10, another three artist combination, when Matja Niessen-Stone, contraitor Wassily Hesekirsky, violinist, and carl Friedberg, planist, are heard in recital.

This will be the first opportunity Washington has had to hear the family washington music-lovers have organized an opera committe to pledge the amount necessary to insure the short opera season in December. The combined companies are now having a successful run in Boston, and it is planned to bring the organization here when that season is concluded. The plot relates the adventures of Laura Nelson, a young country girly who goes to New York in search of a position. Much that is typical of life in the American metropolis has been introduced in the story.

The leading role of Laura Nelson is played by Beatrice Loring. The remaining characters are portrayed by a capable cast.

"Million Dollar Dolla' is the attraction billed for the Gayety Theater next week. Lew Hilton is the "piece de resistance" of mirth, yet he is not alone, for his eight confederates, Leater Allen. Bob Perns, Frances St. Claire, Eisle Meadows, Raney and Gibson, the United Trio, and Savo are implicated and equally involved.

A beauty chorus of thirty has also heen provided to say nothing of the twenty song hits and a hoat of specialities which will be introduced during the action of the musical farce entitled "Hotel De Gink" that has been written in two acts and five scenes. The plot is of the usual nonsensical revue species, none the less attractive for its lack of originality or deep sensibilities. The show is replete with comedy situations, and boasts of a number of specialities that are unusual and spectacular.

the forgotten beauties of this music.

Florence Reed, the star of many Broadway successes, will head the program in a filmination of George Scaruporough's drama, "At Bay," at Moore's Strand Theater on Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday, week of December 8. The basis of the play concerns a crusade against gambing, and a special of a noted galmin, industrial of the Stripe Bearing Blanche Forsythe, a charming English actress, will be featured in a photoplay entitled, "The Strife Eternal," founded upon sensational incidents in the unhappy life of Jane Shore, who captivated the heart of King Edward the Fourth. Arnoid Daly, one of America's best known actors, will hold the screen on Friday and Saturday in a vivid film drama, "The House of Fear," in which Mr. Daly appears as Ashton Kirke, investigator. Special music accompaniments will be rendered by the Strand Symphony Orchestra.

At Moore's Garden Theater the noted double feature Triangle shows will be continued and on Sunaay, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of the week of December 6 the program will consists. 6. Old Heiselberg, a captivating comeay drama with Dorothy G.sh., and staged by D. W. Griffith, coupled with an uproarious Sennett Keystone farce. "A Favorite Fool," featuring Eddie Foy and the Seven Little Foys. Frank Keenan will head the bill on Thursday, Friday and Saturday in a celebrated ince dramatic production entitled "The Coward," which tells a stirring story of the civil war. The auxiliary comedy feature on these days will be a Sennett farce comedy, "Pickle Fatty's Fall," with Roscoe Arbuckle, Mabel Normand, Owen Moore and other Keystone farceurs.

Percy Grainger, the distinguished Australian planist, will be the soloist at the next concert of the New York Symphony Orchestra, Walter Damrosch, conductor, which takes place at the Belasco Theater, Tuesday afternoon, January 11.

"The Mad Musician;" the Avon Comes and Torrence in "The Awakening of Toys;" Kolb and Harland in a dance satire; Helene and Emilion is midair hazards; the pipe organ recitals, and the Pathe news pictorial.

Following "The Gentleman from Indiana." in which Dustin Farnum will be seen on the screen of Loew's Columbia Theater the latter part of this week, Theodore Roberts will be seen in an elaborate feature production, "Mr. Crex of Monte Carlo." The production contains a melodramatic story that is exceptionally timely at the moment, as some of the principals represent national figures of Europe. Probably the biggest interior setting ever effected in a studio is used in one of the sets showing the great gambling rooms at Monte Carlo.

why we can't do as well in the farewell business as any other country on the face of the globe. We have the farewellers and we have the people to say farewell to. Now let's aret together and see what we can do about it. As I said, this is only my second farewell, but if I can get back here in the spring. that will be one more, and at that rate—if I can only keep it up—I will be up even with my comestitors by the spring of 1922, and by the winter season of 1857
I'll be well in the lead.
"But, of course, you will realize that I can't do all this by myself. There is one thing I need and that is you—your sympathy, your affection, and all those things, but, above all, your co-operation.
These farewells would be very expensive things to give all alone in an empty theater just for the fun of it.
And for that reason it seems to me that audiences should do their part in the noble work of putting our beloved country in the lead in this respect as she is in so many others of less importance.

is in so many others of less importance.

"I hate to talk to you about duty, but there it is—this is your patriotic duty and I have to tell you about it. And now that I have called your attention to the matter. I am sure you will do your share, which is merely to come here and be farewelled to. The nights are all that are necessary. We can take care of the matinees. So it is perfectly understood and it is very nice of you. I am sure, and it will help us along a whole lot."

With the Local Musicians

Miss Florensce Coumbe, soprano; Miss Miriam Larking, 'cellist; Mrs. Waiter Bruce Howe, planist, and Miss Mildred Rider, planist, were heard in recital last Sunday.

Notes of the Stage.

"The House With the Hundred Mirrors" is another title that may be bestowed upon Keith's now, as Manager Robbins has installed in the foyer and retiring rooms a number of ornate mirrors.

William Faversham, starring in one of the greatest parts he has ever created. Count de Dasetta in "The Hawk," will bring his company and production to the Belasco Theater December 27.

Anna Held is at the Oliver Moros-co studies in Los Angeles at the present time where she is appear-ing daily before the cameras is a picture-revival of her former suc-cess "Madame President."

By abolishing the time-honored traps and drum and strengthening the rest of his orchestra, Manager Rapley, of the New National, is sponsor for an innovation that has met with the expressed approval of many of the theater's regular patrons. The result of the change is to give softer but fuller tone to the music, the National's organisation now being a complete string orchestra.

Dear filt—It is with pleasure I notice the name of "The Norris Peters Company" in your list of advertisers in The Times of this data, for it gives me an opportunity to speak heartily of a very worthy firm. Indirectly, I have been in touch with them in a business way for some years past and hope for a continuance of such relations. Why? Simply because their work is of the highest quality, comparing favorably with any of its kind turned out in any Eastern city; their prices are reasonable, and the courtesy shown and gremptitude exhibited are all that can be desired. Can one wish for more? Respectfully,

My front vestibule door not being fastened back, one day the wind siammed it shut and broke the plate glass in it, 68x25 inches. I priced it at three different places and on reading Sunday's Times I saw the W. H. Butler Company Ad. at 697 and 690 C st. N. W. So I got his price, which was $2 cheaper than the others and he put me in a better glass than was in at first and made me allowance besides for a small place that did lowance besides for a small place. lowance besides for a small place that did not break. That's what I call a square deal. He deserves your patronage. F. C. LUCE, 194 R st. N. E.

Classified Advertising Manager, Washingto Dear Sir-In 1888, in one of the Western States, in compelition with fifty-three persons, won a Webster's Unabridged Dictionary, the ery latest thing at that time in the lexicographer's science and the printer's art. It served me long and faithfully, and at length, after bearing up remarkably well against the ravages of time, and wear and tear, it was no discreption as to be difficult to use. The sewing had failed, the binding crumbled, and the leaves more or less creased and solied. In the meantime I had ourchased another to take its piace, but because of the sentimental value I placed on the old servant I could not bear to part with it. I thought of naving it rebound, but until I saw the Ad. of George A. Simonds & Co., 110 F street, didn't feel able to afford it. The price they made and the remarkable transformation are both highly satisfactory. Respectfully.
